Last year, our company was looking for someone to speak at our annual Summer Safety Renewals that could address teamwork and communication. Since this speaker would be presenting to a very diverse audience with field and office employees, it was important for this person to be able to relate to each group and for their message to resonate with the audience.

After considering several speakers, we decided on Mark Eaton. Mark's program, "The Four Commitments of a Winning Team" delivered exactly the message our company needed. I was very pleased with Mark's energy, presentation style and rapport with our employees. Additionally, I have received numerous compliments from employees and managers throughout our company. Mark was well received and I am confident that his Four Commitments will help improve our teamwork and safety culture.
